Preparing students for the careers of the 21st Century!

The Reagan High School Program for Computer Technology offers students the following choices to specialize in one of the following areas:

The Academy of Finance

The Academy of Finance is a four-year program that prepares students for the banking and finance industry, advanced preparation in a junior college program, or enrollment in a full baccalaureate program. It is a comprehensive program of study designed specifically to assist students in developing a knowledge and awareness of the global economy in which we live and the increasing role of technology in the world of business and finance.

Computer Electronics and Networking Technology is a four-year leading to proficiency as an A+ certificated computer technician and/or to further training in a college or technical school. Four years of math science are presented as well as basic electronics, solid-state devices and circuits, digital devices and circuits, microprocessor theory and interfacing, and computer maintenance and repair techniques.

Computer Programming

is a intensive four-year college preparatory program with emphasis on math through calculus, science through physics, and computer science. Basic and advanced programming techniques are taught in a number of different programming language including C++, JAVA Script and HTML. The students gain experience on the latest microcomputer equipment with access to networks and the Internet.
